

Your Kinglifter perfectly tailored to your application

Each Kinglifter is configured specifically for the customer. The modular system, with standard models and many options, means that the Kinglifter can be perfectly tailored to the way you work.

One of the most important choices you can make is the type of mast- fixed or moving. The duplex roller mast is patented by Terberg and can be fitted with reach forks or scissor mast with fixed forks to provide 'Superreach' functionality. This choice determines the way in which you unload the truck, as the latter allows for one-sided offload.

Depending on the surface you will use your Kinglifter on, you can choose from one or three-wheel drive. 3-wheel drive is suitable for operation on rough terrain, especially when you opt for larger wheels too. For the transportation of longer loads, 4- way operation to drive the forklift sideways is also available with the 3-wheel drive.

Other options include hydraulically adjustable wheel arms and supports to ensure that the machine stays stable during the lifting and lowering of loads, without the operator having to leave their seat. Retractable wheel arms that allow the machine to get closer to the side of the ruck to aid in one-side offloading. Hydraulic fork adjusters are also available, which means no time is wasted changing the fork widths when loading different types of pallets or mounting onto the truck. You can also choose from several engine powers for an optimal work cycle and efficient fuel consumption. Finally, you can have your Kinglifter painted in the colour of your choice to match your corporate identity.

The Kinglifter has been manufactured with convenience, efficiency, and safety in mind. By perfectly tailoring your Kinglifter to your application, you can improve your productivity, profitability and operator safety.
